

Dear Patrons of the Kenan Research Center:

Beginning January 8, 2019, the Kenan Research Center will expand its hours by adding a full day on Tuesdays and our Saturday hours will change to 10:00am-12:00pm and 1:00-5:00pm.

Saturday researchers who wish to request archival or library materials such as manuscript collections, subject files, photographs, maps, architectural drawings and newspapers, as well as certain periodicals and books housed in closed stacks on the lower level of McElreath Hall must make an appointment to do so no later than 1:00pm on the Friday prior to their intended visit. If the request is not received by 1:00pm on Friday, the Saturday staff will not be able to pull material from the closed stacks areas under any circumstances. Staff will follow up with a confirmation email.

Saturday researchers who wish to use the microfilm, browse the computers, or view books and publications accessible on the open shelves in the library do not need to make an appointment.

Please speak with a Kenan Research Center reference staff member for more details on requesting materials on Saturdays when the changes go into effect on January 12.
