JUNIOR INTERPRETER PROGRAM

What is the Junior Interpreter Program?

Junior Interpreters assist with the implementation of living history interpretation and related activities during daily operations and programs at the historic houses. Junior Interpreters should be comfortable with public speaking, interacting with the public, be outgoing, flexible, and eager to learn. During May through September, the Junior Interpreters spend two days a month at the historic houses and present informative content to varied audiences using interpretive techniques that they will be trained. During the months of October through March, Junior Interpreters spend one day a month at the historic houses and also commit time to a research project on a historical topic of their choice. Throughout this time Junior Interpreters are taught best research practices and presentation methods. There is a final presentation date at the end of March for Junior Interpreters to share their research with staff, friends, and family.

Becoming a Junior Interpreter

General Information

In 1926, fourteen civic-minded Atlantans chartered the Atlanta Historical Society to help preserve the city’s history. These founding members met at each other’s homes, collected early manuscripts and photographs, and published research bulletins—all “to arouse in the citizens and friends of Atlanta an interest in its history.”

Over the past 90+ years, the organization has grown substantially in both scope and size, and in 1990, the Atlanta Historical Society and all of its holdings officially became the Atlanta History Center. Now located on 33 acres in historic Buckhead, Atlanta History Center strives to connect people, history, and culture through one of the country’s premier History Centers.

Atlanta History Center is a unique campus that houses the Atlanta History Museum, Centennial Olympic Games Museum, Swan House, Smith Family Farm, six historic gardens, and the Kenan Research Center. Atlanta History Center also includes the Margaret Mitchell House, located off-site at our Midtown campus.

Throughout the year, we bring history to life through living history programs, lectures with award-winning authors, toddler programs, homeschool days, school tours, summer camps, music series, annual festivals such as Sheep to Shawl, and much more.

The Atlanta History Museum at Atlanta History Center is one of the largest history museums in the nation, featuring award-winning signature exhibitions that tell the story of the region’s people—from its earliest settlers to the international city of today.

Atlanta History Center’s property features six historic gardens representing Georgia’s distinctive flora, both native and introduced. Each garden tells the story of a particular group of people who interacted with this land and its plants in distinguishable ways.

Atlanta History Center also operates three historic houses, all listed on the National Register of Historic Places. The Smith Family Farm (registered as the Tullie Smith Farm) and the Swan House, both located at our Buckhead campus, take visitors back in time to explore the lifestyles of Atlantans from the 1860s through the 1930s.

Our third historic property, the Margaret Mitchell House, is located on a two-acre site in the heart of Midtown Atlanta. The Margaret Mitchell House is a designated city landmark listed on the National Register of Historic Places, a popular tourist destination, and home to a variety of author programs. The Margaret Mitchell House features guided tours of the apartment where Margaret Mitchell wrote Gone With the Wind, two exhibitions—The Making of a Film Legend: Gone

With the Wind and Margaret Mitchell: A Passion for Character, and the Margaret Mitchell House gift shop. Designed to honor and preserve the legacy of Margaret Mitchell, Margaret Mitchell House hosts regular programs with award-winning authors, as well as annual creative writing classes for adults and youth, and community initiatives that engage younger generations in the process of writing, reading, and reciting literature, such as Poetry Out Loud.

For historians looking to do their own research, the Kenan Research Center at AtlantaHistory Center is a free public research center offering a multitude of resources for the study of Atlanta and Southern regional history and culture, with dedicated collections on decorative arts, genealogy, military history, and Southern gardens. Copies of historic photographs, prints, maps, and other archival images can be purchased through the Kenan Research Center.

General Admission and Hours of Operation

The all-inclusive general admission allows access to Atlanta History Center—including the Atlanta History Museum, the 1860s Smith Family Farm, the 1920s Swan House, and Goizueta Gardens. General admission is $21.50 for adults; $18 for students 13+ and seniors 65+; $9 for youth 4–12; and free for children 3 and under and Atlanta History Center members.

Atlanta History Center is open Monday–Saturday from 10am–5:30pm and Sunday from 12–5:30pm. (Ticket sales stop at 4:30pm daily.) Atlanta History Center is closed on Thanksgiving Day, Christmas Eve, Christmas Day, and New Year’s Day. However, it is open on Martin Luther, Jr. King Day, President’s Day, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, and Columbus Day.

The Kenan Research Center at Atlanta History Center is open Wednesday–Saturday from 10am–5pm. The Research Center is closed Thanksgiving Day, Christmas Eve, Christmas Day, and New Year’s Day.

The Margret Mitchell House (Midtown Campus) is open Monday–Saturday from 10am–5:30pm and Sunday from 12pm–5:30pm. Tours are typically offered every half hour with the last tour offered at 4:30pm daily. Margaret Mitchell House is closed December 24–26 as well as January 1. Margaret Mitchell House is open on Martin Luther King, Jr. Day, President’s Day, Memorial Day, Labor Day, and Columbus Day.

Inclement Weather Policy and Procedure

When Atlanta History Center is closed due to inclement weather, the entire facility is closed to both the public and staff. Volunteers and staff are to use their best judgment in determining the potential hazard to their personal being of attempting to come to work during inclement weather. If the History Center remains open but a volunteer is unable to make it, the volunteer should call their supervisor and do not try to come in at the risk of your own safety.

In the event of inclement weather you can call the Employee Weather Hotline after 7am at 404.814.4026 for a general announcement on weather conditions and possible AHC closing or late opening. If the History Center phone system is down or if your phone does not work, please listen to the radio or watch the television if possible to find out about closure. History Center is usually closed when the Atlanta Public Schools are, but it’s not a guarantee.
